ABSTRACT

Basic materials and equipment useful in supporting a nursing curriculum are presented in this selected bibliography. It is not intended to be a comprehensive or complete listing of all subject matter in the various fields related to nursing. Rather, it is limited to major resources particularly useful to the nursing student, and which should be considered for initial purchase when setting up a nursing program. The collection provides an excellent foundation of library resources on which to build. Included are books, pamphlets, periodicals, filmstrips, film loops, audio-tapes, and equipment. Sources of non-book materials relative to the field of nursing are quite numerous. A selected listing of producers of such materials is given at the end of each bibliography. Major sources of nursing and medical books is given in the final section. The total cost estimate given for the resources listed is a conservative one. No effort has been made to describe procedures for organizing and classifying resources. This is a matter left for the librarian to decide. A listing of library manuals available on the subject or processing non-book materials is given on the last page of this booklet. (Author/SJ)

This is a selected bibliography of basic material and equipment useful in supporting the NURSING curriculum. Originally, it was prepared as part of the documentation sent to a state Board of Nursing Education and Nurse Registration. It is not intended to be a comprehensive or complete listing of all subject matter in the various fields related to NURSING. Rather, it is limited to major resources particularly useful to the NURSING student, and which should be considered for initial purchase when setting up a NURSING program. The collection provides an excellent foundation of library resources on which to build.

Included are books, pamphlets, periodicals, filmstrips, film loops, audio-tapes, and equipment. Most of the books are listed in BOOKS IN PRINT and are available from publishers or jobbers. The latest edition (not necessarily the edition or date stated herein) should always be requested when ordering. Need for multiple copies of certain titles is a matter left to the Nursing School faculty.

Back volumes of many NURSING journals are available on microfilm. It is recommended that a five-year backlog (at least) be purchased to serve the needs of student research. Back volumes of indexes should also be purchased. Sources of non-book materials relative to the field of NURSING are quite numerous. A selected listing of producers of such materials is given at the end of each bibliography. Major sources of nursing and medical books is given in the final section.

The total cost estimate given for the resources listed is a conservative one. Prices for books and equipment are continually on the increase, which means the costs stated are not always accurate.

No effort has been made to describe procedures for organizing and classifying resources. This is a matter left for the librarian to decide. A listing of library manuals available on the subject of processing non-book materials is given on the last page of this booklet.
